Chicago Tribune.

VOL. XIX. CHICAGO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1865. NUMBER 86.

LATE FROM THE PLAINS.

Favorable News from the Indians.

THEY ARE CALLING FOR PEACE.

Verdict on the Long Island Railroad Murder.

LATE AND IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

THE WERZ TRIAL.

Some Very Important Testimony.

GOOD REPORTS FROM THE TENNESSEE FREEDMEN.

Progress of the Cholera.

FROM ST. LOUIS.

FROM EUROPE.

The Atlantic Cable to be Laid Next June.

THE CHOLERA DISAPPEARING AT CONSTANTINOPLE AND IN SPAIN.

Continuance of the Cattle Plague—Fenian Excitement in Ireland.

Arrest of Gen. Winder's Son.

Shreveport, La., and a Large Amount of Cotton Burned.

Ex-Rebels Preparing to Emigrate to Brazil.

San Domingo Evacuated by the Spaniards.

Ex-Rebel Gen. Lee Writing a History of the War.

FROM DETROIT.

THE WERZ CASE.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

EUROPE.

FROM MADISON.

FROM WASHINGTON.

FROM DES MOINES.

THE WERZ TRIAL.

FROM SPRINGFIELD.

THE GULF STATES.

NEW YORK.

THE FREEDMEN.

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER.

FROM CAIRO AND BELOW.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

FROM VIRGINIA.

DIPLOMATIC.

VIRGINIA.

BOSTON.

New Advertisements.

ROSS, FOSTER & CO.

FROM Importers' Auction, 1,000 PIECES Empress Cloths! ALL WOOL.

500 PIECES EUGENIE REPPS, New Style, all Colors, at Twelve Shillings, worth 25c.

500 Pieces All-Wool, Full Width, FRENCH MERINOS, All Colors, at One Dollar, fully cheaper than Twelve Shillings. All other goods equally as cheap as Merinos.

SUPERB ASSORTMENT OF IRISH POPLINS, in all Qualities and new Colorings.

NEW STYLES AND COLORS IN Silks, Moire Antiques, and every description of DRESS GOODS NOW IN VOGUE.

New Style Paris Made Cloth and Velvet Cloaks!

SUPERB ASSORTMENT OF REAL LACES AND EMBROIDERIES.

1000 doz. Soft Finish Hemstitched Kid Gloves, Best Quality and New Colors, at "One Dollar" per pair.

FULL WIDTH PARAMATTAS! At Four Shillings per yard, worth 50c.

We shall be in Daily Receipt of New Goods for the balance of the season and shall offer them at Prices Defying Competition, as our motto is, "Never to be Undersold."

ROSS, FOSTER & CO., No. 105 Lake Street, Near Tremont House.

NEW SINGING BOOK. BY GEORGE F. ROOT. JUST ISSUED. THE CONCERT ANTHEM. FOR SINGING SCHOOLS. FOR SINGING SCHOOLS. SILVER CHIMES. SILVER CHIMES AND CHORIST. Price $1.25 in Boards.

ROOT & CADY, Wholesale Agents for the Northwest at Horace A. Shaw's Music Store, Chicago.

A. R. & G. H. MILLER, 55 State Street, IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS, HARDWARE AND CUTLERY. Agents for the AMERICAN FILE CO.

JOHN V. FARWELL & CO. WHOLESALE DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS, 42, 44 and 46 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO. AND No. 5 College Place, New York. Particular attention given to orders. Our stock is the largest West of New York.

NORTH SIDE RESIDENCE.

KIMBALL'S PIANO DEPOT 82 Washington Street, CROSBY'S OPERA HOUSE.

LIGHTE & CO'S PIANOS! Received the HIGHEST PREMIUM USE at the American World's Fair and Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations, and TWENTY FIRST CLASS PREMIUMS over all other Makers.

THE TESTIMONIALS of Industry are from the highest musical authorities of Europe and America such as S. THALBERG, TIM'ETTENS, O. WATTER, W. MANON, JULIENS, ARTHUR NAPOLEON, and others.

For proof of Quality go hence some ye.

Official Certificate from the Public School Department of New York.

Every Instrument Warranted for Five Years.

SPECIAL TO THE CITY.—OLD PIANOS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR NEW.

SPECIAL AGENT: SCHUYLER, SMITH & CO.'S AMERICAN ORGANS.

Address or call W. W. KIMBALL, CROSBY'S OPERA HOUSE, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

DON'T FAIL TO CALL AT L. T. CHASE, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN Fresh Lake Fish, 124 Main Street, Chicago, Ill. Opposite Tremont House.

DEARBORN SEMINARY, DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 25 and 27 Michigan Avenue.

KEROSENE OIL.

SOAPS AND CHEMICALS.

New Advertisements.

Choice New Goods AND LOW PRICES FOR AUTUMN TRADE

ROSS & COSSAGE, 167 and 169 Lake Street,

Plain Silks, Moire Antiques, Silks Chenelles, Silks a'Bayadere, Silks Metalique, Mourning Silks, AND IN THIS DEPARTMENT IS SILK GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Plain Black Silks of a quality never before offered in this market.

"PIM'S IRISH POPLINS." NEW AND SEASONABLE DRESS GOODS in every variety of STYLE, FRESH and FASHIONABLE.

Mourn'g Dress Goods of the celebrated "Lustre" and other fabrics, in the market.

NEW STYLES SHAWLS FROM AUCTION. FRENCH MERINOS AND EMPRESS CLOTHS, CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, LINENS, SERVINGS, SHIRTINGS, FLANNELS, BLANKETS, Housekeeping and Domestic Goods, for sale lower than other houses.

MRS. WINSLOW, An Experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of Mothers the SOOTHING SYRUP, FOR CHILDREN TEETHING, which greatly facilitates the process of teething, and by relieving the child from pain and suffering, will also ALL PAIN and suffering, and is Sure to Relieve the Bowels. Diarrhœa, which is usually the result, will also yield to its influence, and will give rest to your infants.

Relief and Health to your Infants. We have put up and sold this article for 5 years, and can say in all confidence and truth of it what we can not of other articles of this class, that we have never heard a single complaint of it. IT FAILS IN A SINGLE INSTANCE TO EFFECT A CONFIDENT RELIEF. Even the oldest and most experienced nurses say it is the best article they have ever seen or heard of. It is pleasant to the taste, it quiets the child, it softens the gums, it allays all pain, it relieves wind in the bowels, it cures diarrhœa, it gives rest to the mother, and health and refreshment to the child. THIS MEDICINE IS NOT RECOMMENDED TO PROVE A PANACEA FOR ALL DISEASES, but as a most simple, safe, and perfect remedy for the diseases of infancy and childhood, in which it does so much good that MOTHERS WHO KNOW THIS ARTICLE WILL NOT BE WITHOUT IT. CERTIFICATES FROM THE PHYSICIANS OF NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN, showing the extent to which it is used in their practice, and stating that they have never met with a case in which it did not produce the most beneficial effect, will be found in other advertisements from time to time, and the public are invited to read them. Prepared by a nurse and female physician, and may be used with the confidence that it will do all that is claimed for it. Price, Only 25 cents a Bottle.

The following is an extract of a letter addressed to the Rev. J. M. Hudson, pastor of the Tremont street Baptist Church, Boston, Mass., by the Corresponding Secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Missionary Society: "Cincinnati, Ohio, and upward, February 10, 1864. MESSRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. I have used it in three of my children with good effect. I think it is the best article I have found to be safe and effectual in relieving children from the pain and distress of teething. I have used it in three of the children mentioned in my family, and have found it to do all that is claimed for it. I have used it in my family for the last three years, and have found it to be the best medicine for the purpose for which it is used

DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY AND WEEKLY,

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1865.

NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION.

Receipts Press Sales of the Chicago Daily Newspapers.

Name of Paper.	Day Sales.
Times	25,000
Tribune	20,000
Post	10,000
Journal	10,000
Republican	10,000
Common Schools	25,000
Times, Tribune, and Post combined	55,000

THE STATE FAIR.

On Monday begins the annual Fair of the State Agricultural Society, under auspices which promise to make it by far the most interesting and successful exhibition ever held in this city—perhaps in the West. Chicago has outstripped her rivals in the race of industry and thrift have built the great city of the Lakes, to her ample and hospitable borders. During the next six days we shall have a temporary influx from the southern limits which she has never before dared all to visit. The cattle of a thousand hills will be there—the sheep of a thousand folds—the fruit of a thousand orchards—the machinery of a thousand workshops—the products of countless hands and brains contrived to add to the stock of human happiness, and brought together to add to the stock of human knowledge. The men and skill of the State will be there—the men who fill the soil and supply the independence of a broad sense, and they who transform the elements of nature to the multiform uses of mankind. No one but must learn without gaining a truth to add to his stores. They cannot meet each other without greater in the grace of honest thrift. Their great area can teach us all a lesson in economy, and we may look upon patriotism that has stood the test of the most terrible ordeal that ever tried the metal of manhood. A mighty exposition of Northern industry, and a mighty exposition of the results of Northern valor, and the fruits of Northern thrift. At that, the Exhibition is very fitly, by the fact that in every case where the Northern soldiers have been widely scattered, a production against the movement of which it is not helpful to the cause of the Union, and that it may prove of service to the Chicago Tribune.

Total expense	$4,000
Eight hundred acres of cotton, at $50 per acre, including all expenses	40,000
80 cents per pound, producing	128,000

Net profits on the year's operations $128,000

We are not informed as this instance of the exact figures at which the land was purchased and the crop not having yet been sold, these elements are estimated at the general average, and the result shows that all that a Northern farmer has to do is to plant and cultivate the cotton raising crop, and money can be made at raising cotton without the cumbrous aid of plantation slaves. These yields are not highly gratifying to the friends of their labors, and intend the coming season to greatly enlarge their field of operations. For this purpose they have purchased, on the Tazoo, in Mississippi, a plantation of seventeen hundred acres, and will pursue the same line of policy that has proved them by the past. It is the intelligent mind of operations they enjoyed considerably from the incursions of guerillas, but they have now entirely disappeared. Mr. Towner informs us that "plantation management" will take time to control the action of a large portion of the old Tennessee cotton growers. They think it beneath their dignity to have anything to do with it. Cotton is the greatest bin simply as a "nigger," and the result has been that they have accomplished nothing during the season in the way of raising cotton, being so jealous of the cotton crop, owing to the continued drought, is most an entire failure, and the necessary supply of that staple will have to come from the North. In regard to the new cotton of the crop, the planters are continually receiving new light, and by another year, or two, at farthest, they will begin to understand and appreciate the situation and when they do, they will be ready to adapt themselves to the new order of things. A few years, Mr. Towner thinks, will unite them the direction of the Northern capital and free labor that can be found in the South.

☞ The Chicago Journal inquires why we do not re-open the circulation controversy, and why we are more of the opinion. We answer that the question is already settled. We know the Journal returned its sales for the year ending May 1, 1865, at 8,000,000. We know that the Tribune returned its sales for the same period at 9,000,000, and we can prove that our return was correct. By a recent ruling of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the returns of newspaper printing, that is, wholesale dealers shall make the sales of the former year the basis of the return for the present year, has been suspended, and the Internal Revenue Office will be compelled to make an estimate in the first license required during the year, to be remitted from time to time, according to circumstances. Consequently we have paid for the license, for just the amount which we found owing against us on the books of the Collector without any agency of our own.

In a word about this matter, the Journal in its last issue thinks the Journal to drop this subject and "hang away again on the dry land." And when it assumes the subject of the distressed tax-payers, will it not say a word about the cheaply-obtained horses and swindle, which it helped through the Legislature, giving away for nothing a franchise belonging to the people, for which a committee of responsible citizens offered to pay into the City Treasury ONE MILLION DOLLARS?

FROM WASHINGTON.

Observations in the President's Office.

An Hour with the Crowd.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.

The President's office is in the second story of the White House. It is a large square room, with two windows looking southward. The view from either of these windows is in some respects an exceedingly attractive one. Directly beneath is the trim and handsome little park, constituting what is known as the "White House Grounds" proper, with its clumps of trees, its winding gravel walks, its artificial, tree-covered mound on either side, and its cotton raising class. Mr. Bobbins next proposes to treat the negroes of the South as the tenders on the road of Canal Street treat the native Africans. To give them articles of dress or presents of jewelry to please the negro's fancy, to give him a dance once a week, and half a holiday twice a week—to give him a seat in the boat of life day-by-day, and to use the Gospel to the free negro according to Bridgeman.

We offer these devices only to the public taste for their success, in adapting the means offered as a substitute for them, the price would be deducted from the negro's wages, and he would pretty well, if not, to cash get the full value of his work in addition by his kickshaws and gewgaws for himself.

If offered in addition to fair wages, the employer either loses their value. Employers never provide a mode of systematically losing their money. The fact is, the mere statement to a Negro Indifference of a plan which proposed to give them more comfortable and cheap food, or furnished of his wages would produce a display of irony which would leave Mr. Bobbins in no doubt that his plan had made the negro's condition worse than before.

In contrast with these fantastic remedies, we hold situation to a land illustrating our idea of the true plan for raising cotton, which is, to go to work yourself.

We had a call yesterday from Mr. J. Q. Towner, of Gibson county, Tenn., but formerly of this city, who exhibited to us some cotton of his raising, in the boll, and ginned, which we raised in that county this season. The specimens are as good Tennessee cotton as we ever saw. Mr. Towner is a member of the firm of Gordon, Towner & Co., at Northern Gibson, who determined to try the experiment of raising cotton by free negro labor. All of them had been in the Federal service, and had studied the character and disposition of the blacks pretty thoroughly. They went early in the season to Gibson county, purchased a plantation of eight hundred acres, employed one hundred and fifty negroes, at a wage of about $7 per month, besides their own and their families' support. They have negroes in the overseers. During the season they had little or no trouble with their hands, although generally the hands are not of the best class—the latter being mostly in the arrears of the State; and they experienced no difficulty, when a necessity calls for it, to obtain any number of extra hands they wish. They planted last spring eight hundred acres of cotton, and they now have the crop nearly all gathered. Although the excellingly severe drought during the season has considerably limited the growth, still the average is full eight hundred pounds to the acre, and is larger than has ever been produced in the same locality by slave labor.

The result may be footed up in round numbers thus:

Cost of land, 800 acres, at say $20.00 per acre	$16,000
Interest on which for one year, at 10 per c.	1,600
Cost of 150 negroes, at $500 per head, including all expenses	75,000
Interest on which for one year, at 10 per c.	7,500
All other expenses	40,000
Total	$140,100
Eight hundred acres of cotton, at 800 pounds per acre, producing 640,000 pounds	268,100
40 cents per pound, producing	256,000
Net profits on the year's operations	$128,000

We are not informed as this instance of the exact figures at which the land was purchased and the crop not having yet been sold, these elements are estimated at the general average, and the result shows that all that a Northern farmer has to do is to plant and cultivate the cotton raising crop, and money can be made at raising cotton without the cumbrous aid of plantation slaves. These yields are not highly gratifying to the friends of their labors, and intend the coming season to greatly enlarge their field of operations. For this purpose they have purchased, on the Tazoo, in Mississippi, a plantation of seventeen hundred acres, and will pursue the same line of policy that has proved them by the past. It is the intelligent mind of operations they enjoyed considerably from the incursions of guerillas, but they have now entirely disappeared. Mr. Towner informs us that "plantation management" will take time to control the action of a large portion of the old Tennessee cotton growers. They think it beneath their dignity to have anything to do with it. Cotton is the greatest bin simply as a "nigger," and the result has been that they have accomplished nothing during the season in the way of raising cotton, being so jealous of the cotton crop, owing to the continued drought, is most an entire failure, and the necessary supply of that staple will have to come from the North. In regard to the new cotton of the crop, the planters are continually receiving new light, and by another year, or two, at farthest, they will begin to understand and appreciate the situation and when they do, they will be ready to adapt themselves to the new order of things. A few years, Mr. Towner thinks, will unite then the direction of the Northern capital and free labor that can be found in the South.

☞ The Chicago Journal inquires why we do not re-open the circulation controversy, and why we are more of the opinion. We answer that the question is already settled. We know the Journal returned its sales for the year ending May 1, 1865, at 8,000,000. We know that the Tribune returned its sales for the same period at 9,000,000, and we can prove that our return was correct. By a recent ruling of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the returns of newspaper printing, that is, wholesale dealers shall make the sales of the former year the basis of the return for the present year, has been suspended, and the Internal Revenue Office will be compelled to make an estimate in the first license required during the year, to be remitted from time to time, according to circumstances. Consequently we have paid for the license, for just the amount which we found owing against us on the books of the Collector without any agency of our own.

In a word about this matter, the Journal in its last issue thinks the Journal to drop this subject and hang away again on the dry land. And when it assumes the subject of the distressed tax-payers, will it not say a word about the cheaply-obtained horses and swindle, which it helped through the Legislature, giving away for nothing a franchise belonging to the people, for which a committee of responsible citizens offered to pay into the City Treasury ONE MILLION DOLLARS?

FROM WASHINGTON.

Observations in the President's Office.

An Hour with the Crowd.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.

The President's office is in the second story of the White House. It is a large square room, with two windows looking southward. The view from either of these windows is in some respects an exceedingly attractive one. Directly beneath is the trim and handsome little park, constituting what is known as the "White House Grounds" proper, with its clumps of trees, its winding gravel walks, its artificial, tree-covered mound on either side, and its cotton raising class. Mr. Bobbins next proposes to treat the negroes of the South as the tenders on the road of Canal Street treat the native Africans. To give them articles of dress or presents of jewelry to please the negro's fancy, to give him a dance once a week, and half a holiday twice a week—to give him a seat in the boat of life day-by-day, and to use the Gospel to the free negro according to Bridgeman.

We offer these devices only to the public taste for their success, in adapting the means offered as a substitute for them, the price would be deducted from the negro's wages, and he would pretty well, if not, to cash get the full value of his work in addition by his kickshaws and gewgaws for himself.

If offered in addition to fair wages, the employer either loses their value. Employers never provide a mode of systematically losing their money. The fact is, the mere statement to a Negro Indifference of a plan which proposed to give them more comfortable and cheap food, or furnished of his wages would produce a display of irony which would leave Mr. Bobbins in no doubt that his plan had made the negro's condition worse than before.

In contrast with these fantastic remedies, we hold situation to a land illustrating our idea of the true plan for raising cotton, which is, to go to work yourself.

We had a call yesterday from Mr. J. Q. Towner, of Gibson county, Tenn., but formerly of this city, who exhibited to us some cotton of his raising, in the boll, and ginned, which we raised in that county this season. The specimens are as good Tennessee cotton as we ever saw. Mr. Towner is a member of the firm of Gordon, Towner & Co., at Northern Gibson, who determined to try the experiment of raising cotton by free negro labor. All of them had been in the Federal service, and had studied the character and disposition of the blacks pretty thoroughly. They went early in the season to Gibson county, purchased a plantation of eight hundred acres, employed one hundred and fifty negroes, at a wage of about $7 per month, besides their own and their families' support. They have negroes in the overseers. During the season they had little or no trouble with their hands, although generally the hands are not of the best class—the latter being mostly in the arrears of the State; and they experienced no difficulty, when a necessity calls for it, to obtain any number of extra hands they wish. They planted last spring eight hundred acres of cotton, and they now have the crop nearly all gathered. Although the excellingly severe drought during the season has considerably limited the growth, still the average is full eight hundred pounds to the acre, and is larger than has ever been produced in the same locality by slave labor.

The result may be footed up in round numbers thus:

Cost of land, 800 acres, at say $20.00 per acre	$16,000
Interest on which for one year, at 10 per c.	1,600
Cost of 150 negroes, at $500 per head, including all expenses	75,000
Interest on which for one year, at 10 per c.	7,500
All other expenses	40,000
Total	$140,100
Eight hundred acres of cotton, at 800 pounds per acre, producing

Chicago Tribune:

LIST OF LETTERS

LADIES' LIST.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Miscellaneous Letters.

SCANDINAVIERKA LIST.

From the 20th to the 27th of August.

MISSISSIPPI CONVENTION.

The Ordinance of Secession Declared Null and Void.

INTERESTING DEBATE ON THE RIGHT OF SECESSION.

Closing Scenes of the Convention—The Memorial in Behalf of Jeff. Davis.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 30.

The report of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments having been disposed of, the report of the Committee appointed "to inquire into such action as is proper and expedient to be taken relative to an act commonly known as the ordinance of secession, which was passed by the State of Mississippi, on the 9th day of January, 1861," was called up, and as follows:

Be it ordained by the people of the State of Mississippi in Convention assembled, That an ordinance passed by a Convention of the people of Mississippi, on the 9th day of January, 1861, entitled "An ordinance to dissolve the Union between the State of Mississippi and other States united with her under the compact entitled the Constitution of the United States," is hereby declared to be null and void.

It was moved to substitute the following ordinance offered by Mr. Trotter:

Be it ordained, That the ordinance of secession, passed by a Convention of the people of Mississippi, on the 9th day of January, 1861, is, and the same is hereby repealed.

The mover of this claimed that by the adoption of the majority report we would not only deny all right of secession, but also of revolution. It would be virtually casting a slur on those who composed the Convention of 1861, as well as those who believed at that time. Mr. Trotter defended the action at great length. His argument, which was the most able of any delivered on that side, was substantially as follows:

The question which remains for the people of this State to settle, and which, in order to be settled, must be settled, in some form, by this Convention, the ground taken by the majority report is that the Convention which ordained the ordinance of secession had no authority to do so. A minority of the committee, however, believed that, whether the ordinance of secession was lawful or not, it is not the question whether the people of Mississippi, acting by her sovereign authority as a State, had a right to dissolve her connection with the other States of the Union and resume the powers delegated to her by the terms of the compact—that the action now demanded was not the exercise of a section of power by a sovereign State which, regarded merely as a revolutionary measure, was sufficient to justify the obedience of her citizens and to expose and justify them. The question is, was it a revolution? If it was, it was a law; and according to the well settled principles of public law and the decisions of the courts of every civilized nation, the citizens of that Government were not only excusable for obeying its authority, but were bound to do so. They had no option. Possession in this case, as in the case of the rights of property, is prima facie evidence of good title. Governments in general, are supposed to be capable of holding grave and important questions of this sort. Governments, indeed, would they be if the rightful Government should punish the citizens for obeying, and would do for disobeying. Arms have decided the validity of the ordinance. The State was compelled to yield her protection, and secede from the stand she assumed. The

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

Chicago Tribune.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1866.

THE CITY.

[illegible]

Memorial from Women and Children.—The regular monthly meeting of the Board will be held this evening, commencing at three o'clock, at the Mayor's office.

Business Gazette.—A reference to our advertising columns will show that Dr. C. W. Ohad of the Gymnasium, New York, has made arrangements to exhibit his working groups, the heavy and Samson, at the State Fair this week. Further, some boxing matches equal to any other entertainment to repay the date.

How to Reach the Fair Grounds.—During the continuance of the State Fair, commencing Tuesday at 9 o'clock a. m., trains will run hourly on the Chicago and Rock Island railroad from Cable depot, corner of VanBuren and Sherman streets, to within a short distance from of the main entrance to the Fair Grounds. This will be the most convenient mode of reaching the grounds by any public conveyance.

The Hierarchy.—The Rt. Rev. Vicar-General of this diocese, in his case, the Rev. Dr. Duggan, of the University of St. Mary's of the Lake in this city, and published by J. F. Syres, No. 181 Clark street, is prepared to receive orders for any well written work, or work in any language, from any of the Rev. Clergy, Religious Orders, and Institutions, which may be published by the Rev. Dr. Duggan, or any other publication, which may be published by the Rev. Dr. Duggan, or any other publication, which may be published by the Rev. Dr. Duggan, or any other publication